The Education Image Gallery provides instant online access to a unique and exciting collection of over 50,000 copyright-cleared images, specially selected for their value in teaching and learning.

Comprehensive coverage from the 19th century to the present day...

The Education Image Gallery draws on the vast resources of Hulton Archive, PhotoDisc and the Getty Images® News Service to provide users with a comprehensive library of images from around the world. 3,000 new images are added each year through monthly updates.

Support for a wide range of subject areas at every level...

The extensive range of images on offer within the Education Image Gallery means that it supports teaching, learning and coursework requirements across the curriculum up to and including A/AS level.

An invaluable resource for teaching and learning...

- All images can be downloaded in screen resolution format, and can be incorporated into teaching materials and student projects.
- Teachers and learners at schools that use Shibboleth authentication can also set up personal online albums containing their chosen images.
- Teaching materials containing images can be used in perpetuity.
- The resource can be used with interactive whiteboards and virtual learning platforms.

A wide range of user-friendly search and browse options...

- The standard search enables users to search across all fields, or to choose to search a particular field – for example, the title or description of the image, subject terms, keywords, or the photographer.
- The advanced search enables users to combine search terms in multiple fields using and/not/or operators, and to search by date or date range.
- Users can also browse by subject, or follow themed Picture Trails – for example Nazi Germany (see over).
- Search history enables users to re-run or combine mixtures of previous searches.
- Search results can be sorted with speed and ease.
